PROGRAMME OVERVIEW

The Master of Nursing programme at MAHSA University is designed to provide opportunities for nursing candidates to develop advanced skills in professional nursing. This programme aims to prepare them to be capable nurse practitioners in their specialised fields, who are able to respond effectively and timely in the current complex health care environment. The programme will examine essential aspects of the healthcare system and nursing practice within the local and global context through multiple teaching-learning approaches, which will strengthen their professional, ethical, managerial and leadership qualities.

Graduates of this programme will be able to support and direct team members creatively and innovatively using inter-disciplinary approaches in delivering comprehensive evidence-based health care practices. The Master of Nursing also sets the platform for doctoral education in subjects related to candidates' interests in nursing. The degree of Master of Nursing is conferred upon candidates who have satisfactorily completed the study and have met other prescribed conditions.

“

"The Master of Nursing programme at MAHSA University is challenging and enriching, both personally and professionally. Through the various modules, I able to expand my knowledge and improve my leadership skills while learning new and innovative ways to manage staff and students at my work place. In addition, I am better prepared to work within an interdisciplinary team of educators training 5 disciplines of Diploma Students in my college. The Managing and Leading Module specifically helped me in my managerial duties tremendously. My success would not have been possible without the support and encouragement from the Dean of Nursing Faculty and the incredibly knowledgeable lecturers of MAHSA University, who were the root of inspiration to me with their continuous motivation, support and guidance. The online library facility is an excellent asset which enabled me to work on my assignments in the comfort and convenience of my home. I highly recommend this programme to all nurses. ”

“

MAHSA University's Master in Nursing, with its reputation for research of high quality and integrity, has exposed me to the diverse world of medicine. The programme genuinely pushes and motivates students towards success. Throughout my studies at MAHSA, I worked closely with King Abdul Aziz Hospital in Saudi Arabia, which provided me with opportunities for presentations, publications, and collaborations with decision-makers, researchers, clinicians, and patient/caregiver groups. I was also invited to a conference in Dubai to present my Master's Degree research paper on Fall Prevention. I was proud to be one of the speakers at this prestigious conference. I was especially proud to be representing MAHSA University and Malaysia. ”
