UNIVERSITY

"To do what nobody else will do, in a way that nobody else can, in spite of all we go through, is to be a nurse."

- Rawsi Williams
Nurses

The Master of Nursing programme at MAHSA University is designed to provide opportunities for nursing candidates to develop advanced skills in professional nursing. This programme aims to prepare them to be capable nurse practitioners in their specialised fields, ones who are able to respond effectively and promptly in the current complex health care environment. The programme will examine essential aspects of the healthcare system and nursing practice within the local and global context through multiple teaching-learning approaches which will strengthen their professional, ethical, managerial and leadership qualities.

Graduates of this programme will be able to support and direct team members creatively and innovatively using inter-disciplinary approaches in delivering comprehensive evidence-based health care practices. The Master of Nursing also sets the platform for doctoral education in subjects related each individual candidate's interests in nursing. The degree of Master of Nursing is conferred upon candidates who have satisfactorily completed the study and have met other prescribed conditions.
